Role Summary

Housing Officers are at the heart of our communities, delivering high quality housing management services within a defined 'patch' area. This is a generic role, covering tenancy and estate management, voids and lettings, income collection, tenancy enforcement and tenant and community engagement.

Housing Officers maintain a visible and responsive presence in our communities, building strong relationships with tenants and addressing a range of housing matters. The role involves regular home visits and requires resilience, empathy and professionalism when working with tenants who may be experiencing a range of complex circumstances. Tenants may often be experiencing challenging life circumstances, such as trauma, fuel poverty, hoarding or poor mental health, requiring emotional resilience and sound judgement.

Strong performance will be essential, as the role is accountable for the effective management of the patch, managing competing priorities effectively and delivering results in line with organisational standards and service targets. A key part of the role is balancing rent collection with tenancy sustainment, using early intervention and support to achieve positive outcomes and successful tenancies.

Above all, our Housing Officers embody our 'tenant first' ethos - listening to tenants, responding with empathy and professionalism and working in partnership to deliver services that make a lasting, positive impact.
